

Hampton Roads - Southside

SUFFOLK

Influential people have been meeting here for over 400 years. So, when can we expect you?

They all met here. The Nansemond Indians and Captain John Smith, the English colonists, George Washington, the Continental and British armies, the North and the South. And an Italian businessman, Amedeo Obici, met with success when he founded Planters Peanuts. Now, we are ready to welcome you.

Shop our downtown boutiques, explore our museums, dine gourmet or any way you like, or golf your way through five challenging courses.

For those who enjoy the great outdoors, explore the history, mystery and lore of the Great Dismal Swamp National Wildlife Refuge. It once served as a route to freedom for runaway slaves. Today, the 112,000-acre refuge is open to hiking, biking, photography, wildlife observation, fishing and boating.

Our convenient and well-appointed accommodations and meeting facilities anticipate your every need, but it's our hospitality that will keep you coming back. So what's keeping you? Once you meet in Suffolk, the rest is history.
